

Fellowship Training Program In Gastroenterology

AOA
Bradley Warren, DO,
Program Director

ACGME
Michael Piper, MD

Stephen Hoffman, DO,
Program Director

Introduction

The subspecialty program will be jointly sponsored by St. John Macomb-Oakland Hospital and St. John Providence Hospital, which is a 459 bed community teaching hospital that offers 14 residency-training programs and 3 fellowship programs. Macomb Center is an acute care 376-bed community hospital; Oakland Center is a 210-bed acute care, osteopathic teaching hospital. The sponsoring hospitals have full services in medicine, urology, surgery, pediatrics, pathology, radiology, emergency medicine, anesthesia, obstetrics and gynecology, orthopedics and multiple subspecialties in medicine and surgery.

Education Program

The Gastrology Fellowship is a three-year program. Residents in osteopathic internal medicine programs will have the opportunity of rotating on the gastroenterology service at St. John Providence Hospital during the second and third year of the internal medicine residency. This will afford the resident the opportunity to more effectively compete for the fellowship positions. At the conclusion of the training period, the resident will have mastered all the necessary skills for the clinical practice of gastroenterology.